A Conference for Children with Diabetes and Their Families

The Henry Hood Center for Health Research on the Geisinger
Medical Center Campus,
The Pine Barn Inn, &
Knoebels Amusement Resort

August 19-21, 2011
Danville, Pennsylvania

WHY ATTEND THE CONFERENCE?

Because managing diabetes often requires a change in lifestyle, family support is needed. Many activities of daily living must be considered, including the food consumed, medication schedule, and activity level. Setebaid Services,® Inc., in cooperation with The Henry Hood Center for Health Research, hosts this conference to serve the families of children with diabetes. The primary purpose of this conference is to establish a network of support and assist families coping with the daily struggles of managing diabetes.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND THE CONFERENCE?

- Children with Type 1 Diabetes Ages 3-12
- Individuals with Type 2 Diabetes
- Parents, Brothers, Sisters, and Other Siblings (Ages 3-12)
- Grandparents, Aunts, Uncles, and Other Adult Caregivers Who Care for a Child with Diabetes

CONFERENCE ACTIVITIES INCLUDE:

- Friday Evening Opening Session
- Diabetes Education Sessions for Adults
- Children's Games, Crafts, and Activities
- Evening at Knoebels Amusement Resort

LOCATION

Danville is located in Central PA, and less than three hours from Philadelphia and New York City, yet a world away in atmosphere. It is located just off I-80 and close to Routes 11 and 54.

AMUSEMENT RESORT

Knoebels Amusement Resort is America's largest free admission amusement park. Nestled in a beautiful pine and hardwood forest, Knoebels offers over 50 rides, an assortment of games, gift shops, mini golf, a giant crystal pool, and waterslides.

CHILDREN'S ACTIVITIES

The conference will be divided into tracts. There will be some periods where the entire family will be together like meal times and bedtime. There will be other times when the children will be together at a game tract while the parents are in educational sessions. All children's tracts will be staffed by early childhood development teachers, trained in diabetes management.

ADULT SESSIONS

Parents and other adult caregivers will have numerous educational sessions to select from, including sick-day management, insulin pump therapy, blood glucose monitoring, current research topics, dealing with diabetes in the school, how to work with your child's teacher, and many other topics. Each session will be led by a healthcare professional or specialist in diabetes.

Each year, a highlight of this conference has been a workshop entitled, "Supporting Yourself and Your Children: A Workshop for Parents of Children with Diabetes." Blair Hyatt, MSW, a family therapist and Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Head Start Association, will once again lead this workshop for the conference. It is an interactive workshop where parents have fun, learn, and practice giving and getting support while learning new discipline techniques that will strengthen the bond between you, your spouse and your children. This workshop has been consistently rated a "must attend" by past conference participants.

DIABETES CARE DURING THE CONFERENCE

Meal plans, including snacks, were considered when this event was planned and the menu was developed.

Families are encouraged to check their own blood glucose levels, administer their insulin, and record all results prior to meals.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVE

The Children's Diabetes Conference offers families the opportunity to meet with peers and share feelings and ideas on raising a child or children with diabetes. It provides a support group setting for parents while their children (child with diabetes and siblings) are learning at programs developed specifically for them.

CONFERENCE GOALS

- Enable children with diabetes and their families to meet other families who have a child with Type 1 diabetes
- Give parents the opportunity to learn while their children are cared for by staff familiar with children who have diabetes
- Enable children and their families to have fun and develop a better understanding of diabetes
- Foster more independence by using better diabetes management skills
- Allow children and their families to increase self-confidence and enhance their ability to cope with diabetes
- Provide an opportunity to make friends and share experiences of living with diabetes
